June 2023

Dear Artist,

Thank you for your interest in exhibiting with us, this, our 30th show! We're planning on making this bigger and better, with the addition of a craft fair on the Sunday, workshops, and a young artist competition to grow our visitor numbers even further. All artists must submit their work for the online exhibition. You then have a choice about whether to pay an additional fee to also exhibit it in the physical show. Read on for online only ...and please see separate letter/submission details for online and physical entries.

You are therefore invited to submit your work for inclusion in our online exhibition.

Submissions will be via our website and for those who applied to last year's show online, this should be familiar. As always, this is not a curated exhibition and so everyone who applies will be exhibited and given the opportunity to sell their artwork directly to the public (last year we sold over £15,000 of work).

The digital exhibition also acts as our catalogue and 'selling platform', which means that we are no longer able to accept paper copies of the form or physical submissions only. (We are aware though that this is not possible for everyone and so if you require assistance with the submission process, we will be hosting some sessions to offer support with this in person – if you'd like to take advantage of this, please contact us.)

Key dates

- Noon, Sat. 26th August – DEADLINE FOR SUBMISSION TO THE ONLINE SHOW
- Saturday 26th August, 7pm: Pre-view/launch event, Ticknall; website live for preview (ticketed events) – champagne & canapes, £10
- Sunday 27th – Monday 28th August, inc.: DCArts Summer Exhibition open, Ticknall, 9am – 5pm daily
- Sunday 27th Aug – Saturday 2nd Sept., inc.: DCArts Online exhibition open for sales
Note: other deadlines apply for those submitting their work for physical display – please refer to separate guidance

How will it work?

- The exhibition will be online via a website alongside the physical show. The number of artworks each artist can include in the online show is unlimited, but each piece is subject to a £2 digital hanging fee.
- Artists can choose to pay an additional fee (of £1 for artworks and sculpture smaller than A3; £2 for artworks larger than A3) and include some (or all) of their work in the physical show (up to a max. of 10 pieces) – please see separate letter for guidance.

- All online entries will be displayed collectively as part of the exhibition (as per the physical show) but there will be the ability to filter works by artist to help buyers navigate through the works
 - Each artist will have the opportunity to include up to 300 words describing themselves, their practice, approach, inspiration, etc. which can also include links to artists own website/Instagram/facebook, etc. site and to any videos or promotional material made as part of the summer exhibition. This will only be available online but is included in the hanging fee
 - Artwork will be displayed with the purchase price (selling price to include commission) but not postage (see notes below)
 - We will give remote buyers the opportunity to request additional photos of an artwork they might be interested in if necessary, to secure the sale, and we will contact artists accordingly to arrange this
 - Successful sales will be processed by the DCArts team and then payments made (minus commission of 28%) to the artists via BACS transfer within 4 weeks of the end of the show assuming successful receipt of the artwork by the buyer. (Payments by cheque will include a £1 charge to cover postage/admin).
 - Under distance buying laws, remote buyers will have 14 days to return artworks (at their own cost) if they decide not to keep the piece. If the item is returned because the buyer feels it was not accurately described (incorrect dimensions, poor colour representation in photos, item damaged etc.) the artist may be asked to cover costs. Artists are responsible for ensuring information about their pieces is accurate.
 - DCArts will publicise the event via social media, local press, and the distribution of flyers within the local area; we will also ask all participating artists to help via their own websites/social media accounts.
- To purchase art works
 - Buyers will contact the sales team at any time during the physical or online show openings times via email, phone or in person
 - If the buyer is remote, or the artwork is only online, a member of our team will then get in touch with you, so we will need high availability contact details for you.
 - Where necessary, we will discuss delivery options which might include
 - sending via the post/courier (you will be asked for postage costs at the point of submitting your artwork)
 - arranging for collection from the artist by the buyer
 - arranging delivery by the artist to the buyer
 - pick-up from DCArts in Ticknall (artist to drop, buyer to collect from Ticknall).
 - When we call you to discuss a sale, we will have a preference for delivery options from the buyer, and can negotiate with you about how the work can be delivered. We may need to call a couple of times to finalise delivery details and costs.
 - Artists will be responsible for packaging up all artworks to ensure adequately protected during transit.
 - You should try to find out how much each piece you're submitting will cost to deliver, including insurance and packaging, from one or more delivery companies such as Royal Mail, Hermes etc...but if you have been unable to do so, don't worry, just indicate t.b.c. for now. Artists will be asked at the point of submitting their artwork for an indicative price for postage based on size, weight and insurance (see notes below) to give the buyer an indication of what postage might cost.... please note that sending glass in the post is difficult or prohibitively costly! Online sales are most successful for lower value pieces and those which are unframed, however if you're local to the show and could drop it in, or willing to deliver, or arrange for a courier, we will help you sell any item of your choosing!
 - You will need to make sure any delivery costs include the whole piece including size, weight, insurance, and packaging.
 - We will not be held liable for damage to work if posted. You must make sure that the insurance you take out covers damage or loss to the value of the work.

- In the event of loss or damage during transit we will refund the money to the buyer and you must claim on the delivery company's insurance.
- If the artwork is physically in the exhibition, buyers can take the piece away at the end of each day

Terms and Conditions for Artists Exhibiting Online

- All submissions must be made online, no paper entries are able to be processed
- (If you are unable to complete the online submission but would still like to exhibit with us, we will be holding in-person sessions at the school; appointments will be available with one of our volunteers who will help take and/or upload photos, complete the online entry form and take payments – please contact us if you would like to take advantage of one of these sessions – dates to be confirmed in August)
- Exhibitors should ideally enter at least three pieces of work with no upper limit online (as our digital exhibition space is not restricted like our physical one!) but we will accept entries with just one or two pieces, especially from first-time exhibitors
- Entries can be original paintings, etchings, textiles, or 3d/sculpture as always, but we are also accepting limited edition photographs and prints; framed or un-framed artworks BUT the type of entry (medium/original/limited edition/framed/unframed, etc.) needs to be very clearly stated on the application form (where indicated) so that buyers understand what is for sale.
- Please ensure that you measure each piece (including the frame or mount) accurately and carefully (in centimeters), indicating (where relevant) whether it is hung landscape, portrait or square so that buyers understand the orientation
- A charge of £2 is made for each online entry, regardless of size
- Every artist must submit a written text (up to 300 words) about themselves to accompany the submission
- All pieces entered must be for sale
- 28% Commission will be taken by us on sale of work
- Artists will be responsible for posting their artwork to the buyer, or for delivering/allowing collection as outlined above. Where necessary, DCArts can assist with this for an additional cost. If you know the rough cost of postage at time of submission, which indicate it where requested; if not, please note as 't.b.c.' and we will contact you in the event of interest from a buyer.
- Artists are responsible for packaging the artwork to ensure safe transit and any postage costs must include insurance to cover the cost of the piece.
- Each entry must be accompanied by 2 photos of the piece that accurately represents the colour, texture, size, etc. We suggest that photo one shows the whole image with the frame or mount (if relevant), and the second photo shows either just the image or a close-up/detail.
- Artists are responsible for accurately representing the work for sale.
- Artists must notify us immediately if a piece is no longer for sale so that we can communicate this to buyers/amend the website.
- By submitting artwork to the show, artists accept the terms and conditions set out in this letter.

What to do next

- Complete payment for your hanging fee (£2 per piece online)

Postcard auction

As always, we would also like to invite artists to donate a 'postcard' artwork for our auction to raise funds for special projects in school. This year we are raising funds for our hackspace/community classroom which will replace the current outdoor toilet space – and give us additional gallery space for the art show (as well as an amazing resource for both the school and the local community throughout the rest of the year!) If you would like to donate a postcard for that event, please pop it in the post and send it to or drop it off when you bring your artwork:

Last year we raised over £800 via the postcard auction and would like to thank you in advance for supporting us!

If you have any queries, please do not hesitate to contact us.

We are really looking forward to seeing the amazing artwork everyone has been working on this year and to welcoming even more artists, buyers, and visitors to the show.

Hopefully see you soon!

Kind Regards,

Amanda and The Dame Catherine Arts' Team.

Ps. If you have any 'tech' problems, please drop us a line and Keith will get back to you!

We might ask you to resubmit your photo if it isn't clear.

If you'd like professional paid for shots we may be able to put you in touch with a photographer. Please contact us.

2 Learn how to submit your entries to the website.

Please watch this short video on how to use the website to enter your art.

This video is also available on the home page of the website:

3 Visit the entries page on the website to add your works.

You should enter each artist individually.

Do not add multiple artists to a single order.

You will automatically create an account on the system.

It's very important that each artist has their own account. If you submit multiple artists' work at the same time, the works will all be attributed to only one person who is entered in the checkout.

Please use separate email addresses and artist names when submitting.

We reserve the right to charge administration fees for amendments to entries due to multiple artists being submitted at the same time.

Click to add your works: <https://arts.damecatherines.org/product-category/submissions/>

4 Please email arts@damecatherines.org if you get stuck or have a question about your entries.

We have limited capacity to edit entries so please ensure that your submissions are accurate.

If you want to remove a piece from sale please contact us.
